Acquisition Clerk (occupational base)

At a minimum, the Acquisition Clerk will conduct administrative and record keeping aspects of the acquisition program. Responsible for proficient use of a computer and peripheral equipment with various operating and application software packages, e.g. Microsoft Excel, Windows, Power Point, and Adobe Acrobat. The Acquisition Clerk prepares a variety of narrative and tabular materials such as reports, correspondence, presentations, briefing charts, statistical tables and other documents. This position transmits, receives, and acknowledges electronic mail and messages. They also review correspondence, reports, messages, and memoranda for proper format, grammar, and spelling. Additional duties include making all arrangements necessary for meetings and conferences including, but not limited, to arrangements for space, people, times, and agendas. This includes briefing the appropriate personnel of such meetings and/or criteria and then preparing a record of such meetings.

Acquisition Support Specialist (occupational base)

Analyze acquisition issues and develop risk reduction and mitigation approaches for improving program planning, control, and execution. Prepare, review, and integrate selected milestone review documentation, periodic reports, and certifications. Review deliverable status together with milestone schedules, status reports, and cost performance reports; determine accuracy of information/situation depicted, and report inconsistencies. Prepare program documentation required to support the milestone decision; support meetings and develop, prepare and coordinate reports, correspondence, briefings, plans, and other information and data to support the system acquisition process.

Administrative/Technical Assistant (occupational base)

Under direct supervision, provides support to engineers, scientists, or related professionals engaged in the planning, design, management, or supervision of environmental projects. Assists one or more workers by performing specific or general duties of lesser skill. Performs a variety of such typical duties as: Recordkeeping Support - maintains and keeps records developed by professionals. Records may include files, databases, charts, orders for equipment, time sheets, etc. Provides no interpretation of records; Professional Support - Drives a truck or other field equipment, supplies technicians and other professionals with material and equipment at remote job sites, supports professional in the sampling of monitoring wells, air quality samples, water samples, etc.; Computer Support - Enters data into databases and spreadsheets and provides elementary word processing capabilities, with some initial training.

Administrative/Technical Specialist (occupational base)

Admin/Tech Specialist II: Under close supervision, provides semiprofessional support to engineers, scientists, or related professionals engaged in the planning, design, management, or supervision of construction or alteration, analysis, assessment, modeling, operation, maintenance, design, or planning. Plans and performs routine assignments of substantial variety and complexity. Selects appropriate guidelines to resolve problems that are not fully covered by precedents. Performs a variety of such typical duties as: Design and specification - prepares site layouts for projects from such information as design criteria, soil conditions, existing buildings, topography and survey data; Testing - conducts tests which require the selection and substantial modification of equipment and procedures; Inspection/Masurement - performs inspections or measurements for a variety of projects of limited size and complexity or a phase of a larger project.

Admin/Tech Specialist III: Under direct supervision, provides support to engineers, scientists, or related professionals engaged in the planning, design, management, or supervision of environmental projects. Assists one or more workers by performing specific or general duties of lesser skill. Perform a variety of such typical duties as: Recordkeeping Support - maintains and keeps records developed by professionals including files, databases, charts, orders for equipment, time sheets, etc.; Professional Support - drives a truck or other field equipment, supplies technicians and other professionals with material and equipment at remote job sites, supports professional in the sampling of monitoring wells, air quality samples, water samples, etc.; Computer Support - Enters data into databases and spreadsheets and provides elementary word processing capabilities, with some initial training.

Architect

Discuss the objectives, requirements, and budget of a project. Provide various predesign services which may include conducting feasibility and environmental impact studies, selecting a site, or specifying the requirements the design must meet. Prepare drawings and present ideas for the client to review. Develop final construction plans that show the building's appearance as well as details for its construction. Follow building codes, zoning laws, fire regulations, and other ordinances. Make necessary changes throughout the planning process.

Business Analyst (occupational base)

Business analysts bring the highest level of support, specialized knowledge, and theoretical skills to organizations/businesses, analyzing their needs and requirements, problem identification and verification, and delineation of resolution(s). The expertise of the business analyst can assist senior level management in capital budget planning, cycle time analysis, quality improvement, and re-engineering its processes, programs, and information systems. They extract the necessary data and analyze it, including analyzing the requirements and evolving technologies including risk assessment. They communicate and validate this information to management and recommend any necessary changes, including system realignment. They serve as a liaison among stakeholders or as liaison between the business and the business's service providers.

Business/Financial Consultant (occupational base)

Management consultants analyze and suggest ways to improve an organization's structure, efficiency and help an organization to remain current and competitive amidst rapidly changing business cultures. Management consultants are senior level experienced subject matter experts (SME) regarding tasks unique to the Federal Government. They are knowledgeable regarding the ways and means of government appropriations, budgeting processes, special tax laws and regulations that affect the Federal Government. They collaborate with senior management to provide strategy-consulting including interpreting/translating the business/financial impacts of organizational consolidations and mergers and consult with senior management regarding systems and process reengineering and streamlining. They also provide specialized knowledge regarding risk management and maximization of process/product quality improvement and profit. Management consultants are highly competent in policy and regulatory development, review, and identifying pathways of incorporation in government policies and procedures. They also provide customized training and coaching services for business systems improvement and serve as a liaison (public relations representative) among stakeholders or as liaison between the business and the business's service providers and or the public.

CAD Operator

Uses CAD equipment to provide support to Engineers by preparing routine layouts, detail drawings, assembly drawings, sketches & diagrams. Details to include all views and dimensions necessary for construction. Make copies of drawings and maintains information regarding changes to database. Makes simple decisions but refers most questions/problems to Engineers or Supervisor. Solid understanding of drafting techniques and familiarity with Engineering terminology. Mechanical aptitude with ability to complete basic mathematical calculations. Uses computer assisted design/drafting equipment and software to develop designs. Create and revise production drawings (detail and assembly drawings). Makes final sketch of proposed drawing, checking dimension of parts, materials to be used, relation of one part to another, and relation of various parts to whole structure or project. Sketches rough layout of machine and computes angles, weights, surface areas, dimensions, radii, clearances, tolerances, leverages, and location of holes. Utilizes knowledge of various machines, engineering practices, mathematics, building materials, and other physical sciences to complete drawings. Drafts detailed multiview drawings of machine and products. Draws finished designs from sketches. Update Drafting and Engineering Standards. Responsible for setting up and maintaining an organized file system for Production Drawings. Assists in costing jobs. Involvement in building materials layout. Supports engineers and designers of all disciplines through a variety of tasks including proposal drawings, red marks, and sketches.

Configuration Management Specialist (occupational base)

Configuration management specialists assess and evaluate organizational and management structures and systems and review/prepare assessment reports for senior management. They also assess and evaluate proposed design changes of product, process, or service(s) to determine effect on system or organization, and coordinate documentation of proposed modification(s) for management control. From conceptual design through implementation, they provide senior level quality review and assessment to ensure quality control throughout the entire process. They confer with customer or manufacturer representatives to establish change-reporting procedure(s) and prepare necessary directives for change authorization and documentation as necessary. They perform any necessary evaluations of inspection or technical documents and review/prepare procedure(s) to verify compliance with organization or system requirements. They coordinate activities of personnel preparing manual or automated records of change documents and first-article configuration inspection.

Content Matter Expert (occupational base)

The Content matter experts provide subject matter expertise support to all types of training development projects, including content review and feedback to development staff. They will develop technical information and consult on practical, "hands on" training, as required. They review future courses and assist with strategies for course development. They attend training sessions and serve as instructor as necessary. Content matter experts will ensure technical accuracy of project deliverables. They will maintain current knowledge of relevant technology as assigned.

Contract Manager (occupational base)

Contract managers create, negotiate, execute, and analyze contracts for the purpose of maximizing financial and operational performance and assessing and minimizing any associated risk (both financial and legal). Direct activities concerned with contracts for purchase or sale of equipment, materials, products, or services. Examine performance requirements, delivery schedules, and estimates of costs of material, equipment, and production to ensure completeness and accuracy. Prepare bids, process specifications, test and progress reports, and other exhibits that may be required. Review bids from other firms for conformity to contract requirements and determine acceptable bids. Negotiate contract with customer or bidder. Request or approve amendments to or extensions of contracts. Advise senior management of contractual rights and obligations. May compile data during preparation of estimates and may act as liaison between company and subcontractors. Interface with project management regarding life-cycle contract management.

Contract Specialist (occupational base)

Review purchase requests and work with staff to clarify requirements and develop specifications. Recommend solicitation method such as requests for quotations, invitations to bid or requests for proposals. Identify terms, conditions or requirements to apply. Write and administer bids or proposals, and recommend or make quotation awards. Recommend contract awards. Locate sources of supplies, products and services and advise staff on availability, costs, and trends. Compare things such as products, services, quality, availability, shipping, and make purchase recommendations. Prepare and release purchase orders and documents. Keep records and required documentation of transactions. Interpret related rules and policies and advise agency staff on correct methods and processes. Review contracts and agreements for compliance with requirements, regulations and specifications. Help train agency personnel on contract or agreement processes. Prepare standard contracts and agreements. Collect data and calculate cost benefit ratios. Compile statistics and estimates to use in preparing reports. Coordinate schedules, arrange for and participate in public meetings. Update and monitor databases that track contracts and agreements. Verify adherence to contract or agreement terms and conditions. Identify potential problems or conflicts and solve or recommend solutions. Answer questions or find information for agency staff, the public, contractors and vendors. Investigate and resolve problems of contract performance. Find solution to shipping, receiving and billing discrepancies or payment disagreements with users, vendors, local government representatives or contractors. Approve price changes and decide to cancel, bid again or renew contracts. Negotiate returns and credits, expedite orders, reschedule deliveries and cancel or renegotiate orders. Write contract amendments due to changes in project scope or to solve contractor or construction problems.

Engineering Designer

Designs and develops layouts. Assists engineers with initial design and drawing requirements. Create wiring diagrams for electricians and installers. Designers use their knowledge to specify layouts, procedures and materials. Assists in the production of detailed schematics. Conceptualizes plans, details and sections to accurately convey construction or fabrication requirements. Check and back-check drawings produced by drafting personnel. Requires basic knowledge of codes. Has knowledge of commonly-used concepts, practices, and procedures within a particular field. Relies on instructions and pre-established guidelines to perform the functions of the job.

Engineer

Engineering disciplines include, but are not limited to civil, electrical, material and mechanical. Supervises and coordinates the activities of Engineers, Designers and Technicians assigned to a specific engineering project, or works under supervision relevant to level. Uses and applies standard principles, theories, concepts and techniques. Plans, performs engineering research, design development, and other assignments. Ensures all engineering projects, initiatives and processes are in conformance with engineering and customer specifications.

Engineer Technician

The Engineer Technician reviews, assesses and resolves complex and diverse construction, design, and/or general engineering problems encountered during the performance of projects assigned. Major duties include: providing advice, solutions, and assisting the project engineer, senior engineer, or construction manager on technical matters involving thorough knowledge of engineering practices and construction methods; using initiative and teamwork to research problems, make recommendations, or establish alternative proposals for consideration; making on-site visits to determine facility/site condition and develop engineering layout recommendations during project development; preparing quality assurance plans; reviewing and processing contractor submittals, including progress schedules, safety plans, quality control plans, monthly invoices, and utility outage requests; attending conferences to discuss and clarify principle technical requirements; reviewing proposals to conduct cost/price analyses, highlight hidden/unnecessary costs, and to obtain input to give to the engineer; and preparing procedures for conducting tests on various types of equipment and systems, including determining the equipment required, instruments needed, and extent of testing to be performed.

Estimator

Estimators are responsible for evaluating bid specifications and drawings, ensuring that we know everything required to successfully bid and win the project. Estimators must aggressively follow-up with subcontractors to ensure that bids are received. Estimators also work with the Project Management teams to follow-up on bids and budgets to close the business. Prepares and maintains status of plan reproduction. Solicits and maintains communication with subcontractors and vendors. Prepares subcontractor bid packages. Transmits addenda and other bid information to subcontractors. Ensures that we have the proper coverage from subcontractors on bid day. Contacts supply houses to obtain additional subcontractor bids. Review bid requirements. Has a thorough understanding of the scope for specific trades assigned. Develops RFIs and clarifications and ensure adequate subcontractor coverage and shows interest. Performs a comprehensive "bid day" analysis and scoping of specific assigned trades. Understands how to fit subs to the size/scope of project. Creates bid lists that fit scope of job. Include value-engineering ideas on every bid. Follow up & closing. Consistently follows up on submitted bids and budgets with Architect and/or Construction Manager to close business. Properly turns over bid documents and sub buyout information to Project Management in a timely manner. Review drawings with Project Management team and highlight areas of concern. Review job cost with Project Management team and highlight any subs/material vendors that still need to be awarded. Awards subs in a timely manner to ensure release of materials.

Fire Protection Consultant (occupational base)

Fire protection engineer with experience in implementing, managing, and/or assessing fire protection programs. Development or analysis of code compliance alternatives. Peer and third-party reviews. Establish criteria for the design of fire alarms, suppression and/or life safety systems based on client's environmental and regulatory compliance needs. Review existing fire alarm, suppression and/or life safety systems for operational functionality, compliance and regulatory requirements; determines improvement recommendations. Experience in integrating fire protection into designing and/or operating facilities and interpreting and implementing NFPA and other client fire protection requirements.

Graphic Designer (occupational base)

Graphic designers design art and copy layouts for marketing materials such as posters, logos, displays, presentations, web graphic; communications media such as books, magazines, newspapers, television, and packaging; and training materials such as presentations, booklets, training guides, posters and certificates. Confer with senior management for overall program specifications and goals. Study illustrations and photographs to plan presentation of material, product, or service. Determine size and arrangement of illustrative material and copy, select style and size of type, and arrange layout based upon available space, knowledge of layout principles, and esthetic design concepts. Review existing material and make recommendations to update or improve. Explore and create new and innovative ways to design and format marketing, communication and training materials. Position may require preparation of illustrations or rough sketches of material according to instructions of client or supervisor.

Human Resource Manager (occupational base)

Human resource managers prepare strategy plans, perform resource assessments, design and implement surveys, provide workplace improvement recommendations. Work with senior level management to develop workplace strategies, identify and integrate organizational restructuring to maximize human resources and increase productivity and assist senior management in changing corporate policy as necessary. Identify and evaluate or create employee development and training programs as necessary to develop human resource skills, increase productivity, and quality of work. The result of employee development should increase individual and organizational performance thus improving Company/business goals and objectives. Represent Company/business at personnel-related hearings and investigations or as part of corporate legal team. Facilitate senior management and/or represent management in any public/media relations or corporate sponsored public events. Prepare and distribute fact sheets, news releases, etc. to media representatives and other persons who may be interested in learning about or publicizing employer's activities or message. Keep abreast of rapidly changing organizational environments and technologies and evolving resource needs in order to advise senior management.

Nuclear Criticality Safety (occupational base)

Nuclear Criticality Safety I-III: Knows and applies fundamental practices and procedures particular to criticality safety. Work is governed by standard procedures, policies, or discipline techniques. Analysis work is varied and somewhat difficult in character.

Nuclear Criticality Safety IV-V: Demonstrated experience base showing in-depth knowledge and/or experience that provides uncommon wisdom in supporting criticality safety programs and their implementation. Provides analysis, guidance, and insight to evaluate and improve performance of processes and techniques for interactions with fissile materials. Serves as primary resource on a task. Regarded as expert in the field. Supplies technical advice and counsel to other professionals and senior management. Operates with wide latitude for independent action.

Nuclear Ops & Safety Consultant (occupational base)

Supports the establishment, implementation, management, and/or execution of programs/projects related to nuclear operations and health and safety programs. The nuclear operations and safety consultant provides consultancy on site and/or facility operational performance including but not limited to conduct of operations; facility walk-downs; operational culture and accountability; integrated safety management; project management; configuration management; compliance; security; hazards analysis; accident analysis; quality assurance; and occupational safety and health. Has working knowledge of oversight activities and facility management tasks associated with work control and facility operations, and relevant industry standards, federal regulations, and DOE Orders, such as 10 CFR 830, DOE O 422.1, and DOE O 420.1C.

Nuclear Safety (occupational base)

Provide nuclear facility safety technical support that may include: performing consequence analyses involving the hypothetical release of toxic and/or radiological materials including source-term analysis, meteorological data analysis/compilation, and atmospheric dispersion analysis; development of Documented Safety Analysis (DSA) documentation; Unreviewed Safety Question Determinations; and hazard identification and screening. Work is governed by standard procedures, policies, or discipline techniques, such as U.S. NRC Regulatory Guide 1.145, DOE-STD-1066-20012, DOE-STD-3009-94 and -2014 and DOE-STD-1189-2008.

Principal (occupational base)

Provides independent reviews and assessments in areas of specialized expertise and provides guidance to project teams in delivering results on projects of complex, high- technology nature. Interfaces with management personnel and customer representatives. Develops and enforces work standards, assigns schedules, reviews work quality, communicates goals, objectives, and policies of the organization to subordinates. Identifies industry best practices to clients in technical and management areas.

Procurement Analyst (occupational base)

The Procurement Analyst is responsible for helping to establish and adhere to certain purchasing guidelines based on the strategies and goals outlined by their employer and more specifically the finance department. He or she may be expected to regularly compose RFIs (Requests for Information), a preliminary tool used to collect information about the strengths and abilities of prospective vendors, or RFPs (Requests for Proposal).

The Procurement Analyst will negotiate the exact terms of the agreement so as to establish clear expectations on the part of both parties. Responsible for drafting all contracts between their employer and their prospective vendors. Analyze current market trends within their field based on sales or performance data, as well as to forecast future performance and make procurement recommendations accordingly. Proficiency with MS Office Suite, particularly Excel and Word are also mandatory. A Procurement Analyst must be detail oriented, analytical, organized, and objective. He or she must be able to analyze data quickly and ascertain a plan of action based on that data.

Program Manager (occupational base)

Program Managers provide program direction (including planning/scheduling) to ensure implementation, execution, and completion of quality business, technical, and financial management of programs and associated projects. Program managers have the necessary education and experience with special emphasis in programs and services unique to the Federal Government. They provide program benchmarking or quality process milestones in order to establish process performance monitoring, evaluation and quality improvement measures and subsequent integration into the program. They ensure that all program objectives are met or exceeded. Program managers ensure that necessary resources are available and are used efficiently. They assign and supervise personnel according to professional knowledge and experience to provide comprehensive management matched with scope of program. They communicate to ensure understanding of program goals, milestones, deliverables, and individual's functional responsibilities. Evaluates progression of program milestones and modifies methodology as applicable to ensure overall program goals, objectives and budget are being attained. Interfaces with and provides program compliance and progress updates and closeout services as appropriate with client/contract management. Program managers are well versed in functioning as a business or program representative to the stakeholders in briefings and meetings with the stakeholders and providing support services and leadership. They have experience representing the client in public as well as improving public relations. They also provide a level of expertise both managerially and technically to government and corporate management.

Project Manager (occupational base)

Project managers provide overall project direction to ensure implementation, execution, and completion of quality technical and financial management of tasks and milestones associated with the project. Ensure that all project objectives are met or exceeded. Highest level of experience in integrating multiple projects including maximizing use of resources/personnel, scheduling, and costing. Project managers ensure that necessary resources to accomplish the project(s) are available and are used efficiently. Assign and supervise personnel according to professional knowledge and experience to ensure quality deliverable in accordance with contract. Communicate with staff to ensure understanding of project goals, milestones, deliverables, and individual's functional responsibilities. Evaluate progression of project milestones and budget and modify work as applicable to ensure overall project quality, schedule and budget are being attained. Interface with and provide project compliance and progress updates as appropriate with senior level client/contract management. Provide the highest level of project management expertise at the highest government and corporate levels.

Quality Control Inspector

Monitor the construction process to ensure all requirements of construction, fabrication and final product are met in accordance with Company procedures and Federal, state and local regulations. Maintain standards of safety and comply with Health, Safety & Environment Management System requirements. Take reasonable care of own health and safety and that of others in the workplace. Follow and maintain standards of Quality in accordance with Quality System requirements. To monitor Welder performance and conduct visual inspections of welds and repairs of welds in accordance with Company procedures and Federal, state and local regulations. To check, inspect and test incoming welding and construction materials to ensure they meet project specification requirements. To monitor the construction process from all aspects to ensure performance meets job quality and design requirements in accordance with Company procedures and Federal, state and local regulations. To coordinate with clients to undertake inspections of prepared test specimens and witness destructive tests. To identify and prepare Welding Procedure Specification (WPS) for jobs as per project specifications and verify welders meet requirements. To collate all relevant documentation for the job and apply the data to the creation of a Test Pack to undertake pre hydro-test inspection activity. To undertake verification of welding machines to ensure equipment meets job requirements specification and provide verification of electrode baking and holding temperature including control and issue. To conduct fit up and dimension inspections provide technical guidance for welding sequence and distortion control. To survey erection, construction and equipment for alignment and plumbness in accordance with drawings and specifications. To prepare all equipment punch lists and verify all items are in place and act as an agent for Company during punch list activity.

Scheduler

Responsible for the planning and scheduling of construction work and work crew. Gathers and analyzes information to prepare reports on the progress of projects. Ensures that assignment and scheduling of work follows company policy. Evaluates current procedures and recommends changes to improve the efficiency of planning and scheduling of projects. Requires a bachelor's degree and at least 10 years of experience in the field or in a related area. Familiar with a variety of the field's concepts, practices, and procedures.

Specification Writer

Interprets architectural or engineering plans and prepares material lists and specifications to be used as standards by plant employees or contracting personnel in material processing or in manufacturing or construction activities: Analyzes plans and diagrams, or observes and makes notes on material processing, to determine material and material processing specifications, or specifications for manufacturing or construction activities. Writes technical descriptions specifying material qualities and properties, utilizing knowledge of material standards, industrial processes, and manufacturing procedures. May draw rough sketches or arrange for finished drawings or photographs to illustrate specified materials or assembly sequence. Workers usually specialize and are designated according to engineering specialization, product, or process.

Sr. Engineer/Scientist (occupational base)

Sr. Engineer/Scientist I: A fully competent engineer or scientist in all conventional aspects of the subject matter or the functional area of the assignments, plans and conducts work requiring judgment in the independent evaluation, selection, and substantial adaptation and modification of standard techniques, procedures, and criteria. Devises new approaches to problems encountered. Plans, schedules, conducts, or coordinates detailed phases of work in part of a major project or in a total project of moderate scope. May supervise a few engineers or technicians on assigned tasks; estimates personnel needs and schedules and assign work to meet completion date.

Sr. Engineer/Scientist II: Applies intensive and diversified knowledge of engineering or scientific principles and practices in broad areas of assignments and related fields. Makes decisions independently on engineering or scientific problems and methods and represents the organization in conferences to resolve important questions and to plan and coordinate work. Requires the use of advanced techniques and the modification and extension of theories, precepts, and practices of the field and related sciences and disciplines. Supervises, coordinates, reviews the work of a small staff or engineers and technicians; estimates personnel needs and schedules and assigns work to meet completion date.

Sr. Engineer/Scientist III: Has full technical responsibility for interpreting, organizing, executing, and coordinating assignments. Plans and develops projects concerned with unique or controversial problems that have an important effect on major programs. Maintains liaison with individuals and units within or outside the organization with responsibility for acting independently on technical matters pertaining to the field. Plans, organizes, and supervises the work of a staff of engineers and technicians. Evaluates progress of the staff and results obtained, and recommends major changes to achieve overall objectives.

Sr. Engineer/Scientist IV: Makes decisions and recommendations recognized as authoritative and have an important impact on extensive engineering activities. At this level, individuals have demonstrated creativity, foresight, and mature engineering or scientific judgment in anticipating and solving unprecedented engineering or scientific problems, determining program objectives and requirements, organizing programs and projects, and developing standards and guides for diverse engineering activities. Directs several subordinate supervisors or team leaders, some of who are in Senior Engineer/Scientist positions, or as an individual researcher or consultant, may be assisted on individual projects by other engineers and technicians.

Subject Matter Expert (occupational base)

The Subject Matter Experts (SMEs) provide subject matter expertise within a specified discipline. Provide highly specialized guidance and in-depth experience and knowledge of technical issues, as well as methodologies required for analyzing extremely complex projects. Provide consulting services to senior managers, professional staff, and policy makers. Formulate and implement proven methodologies for policies, programs, and processes. Performs strategic policy analysis and recommends process and policy improvements. Ensures accuracy of project deliverables.

Technical Documentation/ Compliance Specialist (occupational base)

Provides technical product development and review support to technical staff. Significant expertise in Microsoft Office products or equivalent, working with templates, and developing high quality products. Proof reads technical products including documents, reports, and presentations developed by other professionals and edits for readability and correctness of text. Assembles technical documents and reports from multiple authors.
