2. MAXIMUM ORDER

There is no maximum task order size for this contract; however a maximum threshold of $750,000/task order was established. When an agency order exceeds this maximum threshold, ordering offices may (in accordance with FAR 8.404):

- I. Based upon the initial evaluation, generally seek price reductions from the schedule contractor(s) appearing to provide the best value (considering price and other factors); and
- II. After price reductions have been sought, place the order with the schedule contractor that provides the best value and results in the lowest overall cost alternative (see FAR 8.404(a)). If further price reductions are not offered, an order may still be placed, if the ordering office determines that it is appropriate.

Quantum Research International, Inc. (Quantum) may:

- I. Offer a new lower price for this requirement (the Price Reductions clause is not applicable to orders placed over the maximum order in FAR 52.216-19 Order Limitations); or
- II. Offer the lowest price available under the contract; or
- III. Decline the order. Quantum must return declined orders to the ordering office within 5 workdays after receipt.

QUANTUM CORPORATE OVERVIEW

Quantum Research International, Inc. (Quantum), is a successful, independently owned, Small Business headquartered in Huntsville, AL that has a 20+ year history of providing defense related products, services and solutions to the U.S. Armed Forces, Federal Government, Industry and other satisfied customers. Quantum's complement of capabilities is reflected in the table to the right.

As a services-based company, the technical and business expertise of our employees is our greatest strength. We take great pride in a staff of employees and consultants comprised of highly qualified military specialists, trainers, scientists, engineers, systems analysts, technical specialists, military writers and business professionals with many years of experience in their respective professions. They are particularly proficient in developing operational concepts and requirements and translating combat developer requirements (user language) into materiel developer requirements (engineering language). Our engineers, analysts, and technical specialists include all levels of military experience, including retired General Officers and civil servants with extensive backgrounds in Army tactics, techniques, and procedures; Force Modernization; test and evaluation; systems analysis; modeling and simulation; and operations. Many of our prior military personnel have first-hand combat experience, which gives them a deep appreciation for the needs of the Warfighter as well as the survivability, vulnerability and lethality factors applied to soldiers and weapon systems.

Of particular relevance to the services we offer under the MOBIS schedule is the work Quantum performs in the areas of Leadership and Organizational Development. Quantum designs a tailored approach to solve your challenges by focusing on your goals, assessing your organization, and charting where you want to go. Our expertise assists you in leading your organization to achieve long-term improvement goals. We can help you define your organization by developing your vision, mission, goals, strategies, objectives, and action plans.

Quantum's corporate headquarters is in Huntsville, AL, with facilities in Arlington, VA, Bel Air, MD; Colorado Springs, CO; Shalimar, FL; El Paso, TX; and Bel Air, MD. Personnel are also located on-site with customers at several locations throughout the U.S. and overseas.

Quantum has earned its reputation by caring for its customers, and we look forward to continuing to grow with our customers by taking advantage of the ease and efficiency that the GSA MOBIS Services contract provides.
